

4. In February 2010, Petitioner participated in a three-day evaluation at Pavilion Center for possible substance abuse and co-dependency issues. At the conclusion of that evaluation, she was deemed by Pavilion's medical staff not safe to practice pharmacy due to severe codependency issues. Pavilion recommended residential treatment and monitoring by NCPRN.
5. Petitioner did not initially follow Pavilion's recommendation.
6. After a period of reflection, Petitioner, at NCPRN's recommendation, completed a 30-day residential codependency treatment program at the The Bridge to Recovery in Bowling Green, KY in January 2011.
7. Petitioner and NCPRN testified to her progress in understanding and dealing with codependency issues, including group counseling and adherence to a "safety plan."
8. Petitioner testified that her husband was "medically tapered" off of the controlled substance that she diverted for him. Petitioner admitted, however, that her husband has not received any other treatment for his substance abuse problems.
9. Petitioner testified that with her current understanding of codependency issues, counseling, and safety plan, she believes that she will not be pressured into diverting controlled substances for her husband.
10. NCPRN advocated for Petitioner's return to practice with appropriate conditions.
