
KELSEY CARTER

My name is Kelsey Carter, and I am currently the pharmacy manager at Publix pharmacy in Cary, NC where I have been managing for the last 4 and a half years. I started with the company as a graduate intern before I graduated in 2017 from Campbell University. I followed my father's footsteps in the retail pharmacy, and started off as a technician when I turned 18 at Target pharmacy.

I knew I have always wanted to have a career in retail pharmacy and have a passion for ensuring optimal health through vaccinations and medication management opportunities. I have developed close relationships with my patients to help them maintain healthy lifestyles.

I have served as our clinical ambassador for the Raleigh and Virginia markets- through this role I coached teams and trained vaccinating technicians to help promote improved clinical outcomes and increased vaccination rates. I have a passion for collaborating with other teams and being open to individual ideas ensure success.

Outside of Publix, I am a member of the North Carolina Association of Pharmacists. I currently live in Holly Springs with my dog, Fenway. I enjoy traveling, and recently visited London and Paris this past year.
